R. hall now serves as headquarters. At 1 o'clock a detachment of James E. Hall post escorted the veterans to Emery Hall, where a banquet was tendered them by the citizens of Bucksport. An address of welcome was delivered by G. W. McAllister and responded to by Col. A. B. Sumner of Lubec. It is a beautiful day and all are enjoying themselves. They are now about to go to Fort Knox. A camp fire will be held tonight and the election of officers will take place tomorrow.

Burned Mills.

FRYEBURG, Aug. 30.—The mills built by Shirley & Nutter, now owned by P. Cousens & Co., for general lumber and grist mills, were burned this morning at 8 o'clock. The fire caught about the engine. But little grain was on hand. Everything else is a total loss. The mills were insured, with Fife's agency, for $4,750.

Lawyers at Boothbay.

BOOTHBAY, Aug. 30.—Chief Justice Peters and Judge Libby of the Supreme Court, with Ruel Small, Esq., as official reporter, arrived last evening. The important equity suit of Luther Maddocks against S. Nickerson & Son will be heard before them. Judges Danforth and Bonney and Counsellors O. D. Baker of Augusta, J. E. Moore and J. O. FARMINGTON, Aug. 30.—Pleasant skies, balmy air and a great crowd greeted the second annual reunion of the Franklin Veteran Association, at Phillips, this morning. The following posts were present: E. Mr. and Mrs. Smith's Misfortune.

THOMASTON, Aug. 30.—Intelligence has been received that Hon. Edwin Smith and wife, of Warren, were severely injured near North Conway, N. H. He and his wife left Lovell for North Conway with two horses in a carriage, and when within two miles of the latter place, the horses became frightened at the cars, and, running away, threw the occupants out of the carriage. Mrs. Smith received severe bruises on the head and her ear was cut nearly off. Mr. Smith clung to the reins and was dragged some distance. Both were rendered insensible. The horses ran until they collided with another team and then stopped. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were taken to McMillan's hotel, North Conway, and surgical aid rendered. Mrs. Smith is confined to her bed, but Mr. Smith is about the house. Fears are entertained, however, that his spine is injured.

Reunion of French Canadians.

WINTHROP, Aug. 30.—The reunion of the French people of Southern Maine, under the auspices of Le Messager, of Lewiston, occurred at Lake Maranocook today. Good delegations were present from Lewiston, Skowhegan and Waterville. The meeting occurred at 2 o'clock. Emile H. Tardivel, proprietor and editor of Le Messager, presided and made the opening speech. He was followed by Dr. L. J. Marbel of Lewiston, an ex-member of the Legislature; Rev. Father Generaux of Skowhegan, Dr. Foster of Waterville, and others. The speeches and resolutions pertained to matters of interest to the French Canadians. It was voted that the reunion take place at Maranocook annually. Dancing and social intercourse made the occasion a pleasant one. Lafayette Band of Lewiston and the Waterville band furnished music.

Music in Knox and Lincoln.

ROCKLAND, Aug. 30.—The directors of the Knox and Lincoln Musical Association have decided to hold a convention at Damariscotta during the latter part of September.

The Law at Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Aug. 30.—Next week, court will be held in Augusta, and the criminal list bids fair to furnish a number of interesting cases. The Benton fratricide is now in the insane asylum pending his trial. That the man is insane and that the court will so determine, there is little doubt. Among other cases on the civil list is one of Wormell vs. the Maine Central Railroad. The plaintiff sued to recover damages from the road for injuries received while shackling cars, and obtained a verdict in the lower court. An appeal has been taken by the defendants and the case will be tried over again. The case is, naturally, of considerable interest to railroad employes generally, as the question of a road's liability for injuries suffered by its employes, has never been fully settled.

Dishonest Moriarty.

BRUNSWICK, Aug. 30.—Monday Fred Moriarty, who had been employed in the Topsham paper mills, stole $8 and skipped, leaving an unsettled board bill. It is ascertained that he purchased a ticket for Boston.

Campmeeting at Livermore.

EAST LIVERMORE, Aug. 30.—The annual campmeeting opened at East Livermore very auspiciously Monday evening. Rev. W. H. Congdon preached a very able and instructive sermon from the text Hebrews 1, 1-2. This forenoon at 10 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Whittaker of Portland, preached an instructive sermon from the text Col. I: 16-17. Rev. A. Hamilton of New Sharon, preached an interesting sermon in the afternoon. The weather was perfect and large crowds thronged the grounds all day. The prospects are that it will be one of the most successful campmeetings held for years at this place.

Among the prominent ministers present are: Dr. Whitaker of Portland, Rev. G. C. Andrews of Wilton, Rev. J. P. Roberts of East Wilton, Rev. R. H. Ford of Wayne, Dr. Stephen Allen of Winthrop, Rev. W. A Hallowell Case.

HALLOWELL, Aug. 30.—The Hallowell Register says "it is expected that the work of discharging the stranded schooner S. M. Tyler will be done this week. This is the vessel that struck the sunken pier near the Chelsea shore while towing up river, and sank inside of five minutes. The schooner was in charge of a Portland pilot, who perhaps took too narrow a chance or was unable to steer his vessel."

Southern Crops.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 30.—The Manufacturer's Record reports that the corn crop in the Southern States exceeds last year's by fifty million bushels, the year before, by seventy millions, and the year before that, by one hundred and seven millions. Other crops, except tobacco, are good. The farmers enjoy greater prosperity than for many years. Business is brighter than ever before.

New York's Labor Party.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The executive committee of the United Labor Party, to-day, removed the name of L. J. McParlin as candidate for attorney general from the ticket, alleged treachery, and substituted the name of Henry C. Beach. They also nominated Franklin B. THE FAIR AT BANGOR.

Large Entries in All the Departments and Great Crowds of People.

Maine Flyers Make Records in Exciting Races.

Good Exhibits of Farm Stock, Horses and Cattle.

BANGOR, August 30.—The fifth annual exhibition of the Eastern Maine State Fair opened in Bangor today under most auspicious circumstances. The rain last night effectually laid the dust and left the atmosphere cool and delightful. Better weather for the fair could not be imagined. The people are coming into the city from all directions and by all sorts of conveyances. Regular and special railway trains are all loaded down and late. The hotels and boarding houses are rapidly filling up, but the arrangements are such that all will be provided for as the people are opening their houses for the entertainment of visitors.

The entries are very numerous in the horse department, more extensive, in fact, than ever known at any previous exhibition in the State. The trotting commences this afternoon, when the three-minute, 2.40, two-year-old and running contests come off.

The committees received their books at the president's headquarters this morning and the examination of the grade Jerseys, trotting stock, stallions, mares and colts, matched oxen, grade Holsteins, and grade Ayrshires commenced.

Tomorrow the cat show occurs at Concert Hall, and at City Hall the special prize of a Royal Clarion range, offered by Wood, Bishop & Co., for the best display of bread and cakes baked in the Clarion range, will be competed for.

Tomorrow afternoon Secretaries Whitney and Fairchild, of President Cleveland's Cabinet, with their wives, and with several distinguished gentlemen from the British Dominion will visit the fair and be entertained by Hon. J. F. Bass, president of the society.

Elmbrook trotted without a break and made a long mile. When the result was announced the crowd cheered the great colt roundly and there was great excitement.

Governor Bodwell and his staff are here attending the fair. Every train in this afternoon has brought great crowds and the races create great interest.

The Exhibits.

Norombega Hall presents a gay and attractive appearance today. The ladies in charge of the entry department have been kept busy since early Monday morning, receiving the articles for exhibition and sale, and still they are pouring in. The hall itself is gaily decorated, bunting being suspended from the walls and draped on the balconies, under which are arranged booths containing all manner of articles. In the centre of the hall extending from end to end are four tables literally loaded down with the most fascinating fancy work, quilts, quilts without number, carpets, rugs, etc., etc.

The art display at Norombega this year far surpasses that of any former year. Not only are there more pictures displayed than ever before, but the standard of excellence is much higher. The art department occupies the extreme upper end of the hall and is under the supervision of Mr. Clarence L. Dakin.

The total number of cattle on the grounds this afternoon was about 500, a smaller number than last year, but in the opinion of Mr. H. C. Burleigh, the "Cattle King," the quality of the animals far surpasses any exhibit ever made in this section of the country, and fully equals in every respects the royal exhibition of England. The animals all appear contented in their new quarters, and rather than acting afraid of the visitors seem to enjoy the admiring glances cast upon them.

The chief interest in this department must, of course, centre on the larger heads of stock, and some of the finest specimens in this line is the collection of imported cattle exhibited by Mr. H. C. Burleigh of Vassalboro.

MOLLIE HUSSEY MISSING.

Rochester People Searching for a Popular Young Lady.

[Special to the PRESS.]

ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 30.—Yesterday morning Miss Mollie Hussey, a young lady of this place went to the cemetery here to place upon the grave of her mother, who died a year ago, a bouquet of flowers. She was seen there and seen to leave the cemetery and start towards Great Falls, acting queerly. She was also seen at Great Falls during the day. All last night her relatives and friends were searching for her, and this morning large numbers have started in all directions trying to find some trace of the missing girl. She was a very pretty girl of 15 years, dressed wholly in black. She was so popular and so much thought of by all who knew her that the shoe shops have all suspended work, that the operatives might join in the search. The last trace obtained of her was in Dover, N. H. She is evidently suffering from abberration of the mind, brought on by great sorrow.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 30.—The depot master at Salmon Falls reports that a girl answering the description of Mollie Hussey called at the depot last evening and bought a ticket for some depot south of Dover.

The Commissioner's Powers.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 30.—A Springfield, Ill., special says Commissioner Littler was seen last night in regard to the refusal to grant the order applied for to compel Leland Sanford to answer certain questions in the Pacific Railroad investigation, and Mr. Littler said: "The decision, as I understood it, will restrict the commission in the further prosecution of its inquiries into the expenditure of money for the purpose of corruptly influencing State and federal legislation. So far as I can see no other effect will follow from it. The main and important inquiry prescribed by the act of Congress, namely: As to how the government can secure payment of the amount advanced to the several companies still remains an important subject of inquiry, and the commission will have full power to proceed with the taking of evidence on every question mentioned in the act creating the commission."

A Question of Imported Labor.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—At the Custom House Monday a hearing was held before Collector Saltonstall, regarding the case of the five girl immigrants who were detained on board the Cunard steamer Catalonia because it was alleged that they had come to this country from Belfast, Ireland, through an agreement made with Superintendent Rea of Ross & Turner's twine manufactory at Jamaica Plain, the understanding being that for the traveling expenses advanced by the company a reduction of four shillings should be made from the salaries of the immigrants until the amount was made up. Lawyer Dickman, who appeared for Superintendent Rea, said the girls were not engaged because the company was seeking cheaper help than could be engaged in this country, but for the simple reason that no such skilled labor could be procured here. The industry, he said, was a new one in this country, and the company had not been able to find persons skilled in the work which it would be necessary to have done in order to ensure success for the new enterprise. Collector Saltonstall said that if it was proved to him that this statement was a statement of fact, he would order the release of the women who are now held on board the Catalonia. Mr. Dickinson assured the collector that he could prove his statements by competent witnesses, and time was then given him to produce the evidence.

MAXIMILIAN'S SUCCESSOR.

What a Mexican Prince Says About the Affairs of Mexico.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The young Prince de Yturbide, who was named by Emperor Maximilian as his successor to the unearned throne of Mexico, is at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. He is a handsome and athletic young man, of perhaps 23 or 24 years of age, with soft, brown whiskers, blue eyes and bronzed face. He spends most of his time in Mexico, and counts the City of Mexico as his home. When asked if he anticipated raising the imperial standard in that country, he replied that he did not think the times right for imperialism there, but that if the people would have declared for the dynasty of Maximilian I, he would succeed to the throne. The young prince has become identified with Mexican enterprises, including railroads and mining. "There is considerable difference," he said in conversation, "between the local results in railroad building in this country and in Mexico. Wherever a railroad is built in the United States towns spring up as if by magic, and the local enterprise is stimulated and prosperity ensues. In Mexico there is a notable absence of this local prosperity along the line of railroads."

"What about Mexican politics?"

"There are two parties in the country, the Liberals and the Conservatives, who represent pretty well the tendencies of the republic. The Liberals are in possession of the government. I am, myself, a Conservative, and believe with my party that if we had control of the government the present disposition of the public lands of the State would be done away with. The great ambition of President Diaz is to perpetuate his lease of office and power. He is the Cæsar of the republic. Gen. Gonzales is the only man who can make any headway against him. He does not seem disposed to be again a candidate against Diaz. The Liberal party is rapacious and greedy to such an extent that many divisions have already occurred among its leaders which cannot be healed, and will eventually cause it to fall to pieces. The country is far from prosperous because of the fact that it is subject to revolution at almost any moment. Capitalists are afraid to branch out in any enterprise that would develop the country. The very fact that foreign capitalists come into Mexico while citizens stand back, shows an unhealthy state of affairs. It is a mistake to believe that the Conservative party of Mexico is wholly antagonistic to the United States. A few members of the party have said hard things about this country, and the party has been judged by their utterances. The clericals are by no means all of the Conservative party, and outside of the clerical party there is very good feeling toward your country."

The Prince spoke of meeting Mr. Sedgwick in the City of Mexico. He was with him at the opera last night. He remarked that Mr. Sedwick's trouble in Mexico came from lack of knowledge that three cocktails in that city at an altitude of 7300 feet above the level of the sea are equal to five cocktails in the city of New York. Prince Yturbide will go to Newport tomorrow or next day, and from thence to Mount Desert.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Approaching Session of the International Medical Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The approaching session of the International Medical College which commences Sept. 5th, is gradually attracting the attention which the importance warrants. Some one hundred and twenty-five of leading European scientists have already made known their presence. It is expected that there will be fully 400 delegates from abroad and at least 2,500 delegates from the United States in attendance at the convention. The office of Surgeon-General J. B. Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital Service is headquarters for the incoming scientists and also of the executive committee, who are perplexed beyond measure by the economic problems submitted to them for solution arising chiefly from the niggardly appropriation by the House Representatives of $10,000 for the reception of the foreign scientists. Holman, reduced the appropriation as passed by the last Congress for this international purpose.

Commissioner Black's Illness.

Pension Commissioner Black is confined to the house with rheumatism and has cancelled all his engagements for the month. He says he does not want and wont take the commandership of the Grand Army.

Work of the Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Advices from the Indian troubles show that Colorow and his followers are at the Ouray agency and want to stay there. The military and cowboys hold hundreds of horses and thousands of sheep and goats belonging to the Indians. Agent Byrnes telegraphs that the Indians, when attacked, were on a peaceful hunting expedition, under the treaty of 1874. After a conference with the officials today, the President sent orders that all property and animals taken from the Indians be restored, and that all persons be removed from the reservation not lawfully there. Military forces have been placed at the disposal of Agent Byrnes to enforce these orders. No further trouble is expected. It is stated that 15 Indians were killed, and 16 fatally wounded in the recent fight.

In Place of Judge McCue.

The President to-day appointed Prof. W. Brown Goode, assistant director of the national museum, to be commissioner of fish and fisheries, vice Mr. Baird, deceased. Judge McCue declined the office because of a lack of scientific knowledge.

Patents and Postal Changes.

The following Maine patents were granted to-day:

Orin Fitzgerald, Dexter, smoke and spark conveyor for locomotives.

Charles H. Knowlton, Rockland, car coupling.

George Paul, Sanford, looms for weaving pile fabrics.

George A. Sanders, Caribou, log elevator.

Edward M. Morton was to-day appointed postmaster at Pittston, Kennebec, vice Edward A. Lapham, who was not commissioned.

The post office at Verona, Hancock county, was discontinued to-day.

Perils of the Deep.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., August 30.—The whaling schooner Alcyone, Captain Dunham, arrived tonight from the Hatteras grounds with William Little, shipkeeper, and three seamen of the Provincetown whaler Ellen Rizpah, which capsized during a cyclone on August 20th. Four of the crew were washed away and the balance took refuge on spars. The boats were swept away. Little and the three other men saved started to swim for a boat and succeeded in reaching it. They were unable to keep her free from water, and, having no oars, drifted out of sight of the wreck. The boat and men were picked up the following Monday morning. Search was made for the missing men three days without success. The day before they were picked up by the Alcyone, the men saw a boat and five men picked up by a steamship which passed without seeing the survivors of the Rizpah.

Lincoln Not a Candidate.

TOLEDO, O., August 30.—Robert T. Lincoln today told a Blade reporter that under no circumstances would he accept the Vice Presidency nomination. If there were any possible way, he said, he would stop all mention of his name for any public office. Mr. Lincoln said that he had seen enough of Washington official life and had lost all desire for it. The Presidency is only a gilded prison where the cares and worries outweigh the honors. He added; "There is no likelihood of my receiving the nomination, as pledges would be demanded and I would make none."

A Denial by Senator Sherman.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—Senator Sherman is out in a card in which he emphatically denies the published statement that in a conversation with Senator Ogilvie, of the Dominion government, he (Sherman) justified the action of the Dominion government upon the fisheries question as perfectly within their right and extremely moderate. He took exactly the opposite, that while the Canadian government has a legal right to exclude American fishermen from within the three mile limit of their shore, it was an act of bad policy to do so.

AUGUSTA NEWS.

The Good Work of the State Board of Health.

What Has Recently Been Accomplished by Them.

A Criminal Who Leaves Thomaston for Michigan.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, August 30.—Dr. Young, of the State Board of Health, is more than usually busy now, and his two assistants do not find many leisure moments. The new store room which was recently completed is found a great convenience for storage purposes and already a large number of reports and documents have been disposed of within its door, giving much needed additional space in the main office. The second number of the Sanitary Inspector, the new publication of the Board, is out and is valuable reading. Three thousand copies were printed. Three hundred actual subscribers have already been obtained, and they are coming in rapidly. Fifty-nine names were obtained by a canvasser in Portland working two days, and these have just come in.

Quite an extensive laboratory has been fitted up at the office of the Board to be devoted to water analysis, and is now about completed.

Dr. Young will attend the Inter-State Medical Congress, which meets at Washington, September 5th, as the representative of Maine, also the conference of the State Boards of Health, which occurs at the same place the 7th and 8th of September.

Gov. Cyrus G. Luce of Michigan, has forwarded a requisition to Gov. Bodwell for the custody of one, John Hickey, alias Crawford, alias George Baxter. Hickey is in the Maine State Prison, where was sentenced for three years from York county, September 30, 1884, for larceny. He is wanted for the murder of a man named Thomas Britton, in Detroit, November 26, 1884, and an officer will be sent here who will be at the prison and the moment his sentence expires, arrest him and depart for Michigan.

Land Agent Packard, accompanied by Councillors Warren, Carter, Rand and Wood, committee of the Council on public lands, have been in Aroostook county for ten days past, where they have been engaged in perfecting details. They have visited the other places in the upper portion of the county. They return as far as Bangor, to attend the Eastern Maine Fair, arriving Wednesday morning. The Governor will be accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Paine.

TEXAN LAWLESSNESS.

A Gang of Armed Horsemen on a Spree.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 30.—On Wednesday last four of a gang of horse thieves, which has been making raids near here for some time, rode to Thompson's Switch, a small station 77 miles from Houston, mounted on thoroughbred horses. They ordered dinner, after which they got drunk, fired their pistols and terrified the inhabitants, when they rode off in a northwesterly direction. As they are wanted by the Sheriff for many reasons, a posse under command of Captain Lubbock at once left in pursuit of the gang. On arriving at Eureka the posse parted, Deputy Sheriff Erichson and a part of the posse proceeding in the direction of Smokeyville, and the remainder, under Capt. Lubbock, heading for the prairie. The latter posse soon struck the trail and in a short while located the outlaws, who were camped under a tree. Captain Lubbock then formed his posse in line about fifteen feet apart, and a thrilling sight it must have been began advancing toward the camp. The outlaws, seeing the officers quickly saddled their animals and started out at a quick gallop. After riding a few minutes the leader of the outlaws, who was riding a magnificent roan horse and waving in his hat a wavy black plume, threw his Winchester on his left arm and slightly turning in his saddle began shooting his rifle, sending shot after shot at the officers. The other outlaws, who were armed with six shooters, also began firing at their pursuers. The posse of Capt. Lubbock reserved fire as ordered until it was evident that the outlaws would reach the timber. The command to fire on the robbers was then given and about 40 or 50 shots were exchanged, the outlaws halting and making a desperate fight. During the skirmish the horse of Capt. Lubbock was killed. One of the citizens, named Kassner, accompanying the party, was wounded in the arm by a ball. After the encounter on the prairie Capt. Lubbock returned to the town and another party started out in pursuit. From the peculiar method that the outlaws had of lying low on their horses and their quick movements in running and firing it is thought they were part of the old Sam Bass gang who defied the State authorities of Texas a few years ago. From the large rolls of money displayed by the outlaws on their visit and drunken spree at Thompson's Switch, it is confidently thought they are the some gang who robbed the Southern Pacific train at Humble in June. A dispatch was received from Sheriff Ellis at Cypress late last night stating that he was on a hot trail and expected to bag his game before daylight. The robbers are desperate, and a bloody battle is anticipated should they be discovered.

The Thistle's Speed Producer.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The Commercial Advertiser yesterday devoted a column and a half to a "concealed contrivance" in the Thistle's keel, "which, aside from her lines and sail area, will materially increase her speed." According to this story the contrivance is this: A current of air is made to pass through chambers running along either side of the keel. These chambers are perforated in such a way that a current of air with a strongly impelled jet of water escapes through each hole in the chambers, and so forms a bed of air bubbles on which the yacht rests while in motion.

To support this theory the paper adduces the evidence of "Edward W. Cady, a patent lawyer in this city," who rowed around the Thistle to see if he could detect the contrivance." He did not detect it, but like all detectives he returned home triumphantly with a clew. This clue is the ventilator of the forward cabin. Mr. Cady attaches to that innocent sanitary apparatus the grave suspicion that it is a part of the "contrivance," and is used for carrying air down to the hollow keel. It may safely be said that the Thistle does not rest on a bed of air-bubbles, but unquestionably this new theory does. The officers and crew of the yacht admit that they have a secret speed producer applied to their boat, but it is not a bubble-blower. It is a patent varnish, as smooth as glass, with which the Thistle's bottom is coated, in the hope that it will render her resistance to the water a little less.

Will Not Knock Out George.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—No one was more surprised than David Swinton when he learned through the columns of a morning newspaper yesterday that he was to be the candidate of the Socialistic Labor Party for Secretary of State, and that through him the Socialists hoped to "knock out" Henry George. Mr. Swinton said that he did not care to be the candidate of that party and that he had not been approached by any of its leaders on the subject. He seems to be thoroughly disgusted with the Labor movement, for he has lost considerable money on his own labor paper.

"I have no idea of starting an evening Standard or any other evening paper," said Henry George to a Herald reported last night. "What the party will do of course, I cannot say, but there is no such intention at present." The reports that the Evening Standard was to be backed by ex-Sheriff James O'Brien and that $15,000 had been subscribed to start it were laughed at by Mr. George.

Mr. George further said that there was not one word of truth in the rumors that the United Labor Party had made a deal with the Republicans in any manner. "You must expect to hear a lot of rubbish of that kind during the campaign," he said.

News From Alaska.

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 30.—Lieut. Charles D. Kennedy, on board the United States steamer Bear now in Arctic waters, writes under date of Port Clarence, Alaska, July 10, that since leaving Ounalaska he had visited St. Michael's and had arrested Frank Fuller for the murder of Bishop Soghers last November. He was sworn in as United States Marshal at Ounalaska for the purpose of making the arrest. Kennedy thinks the murderer is insane. He awoke the Bishop and told him that one must die, and, as he thought the Bishop was the best prepared, he must be the one. He fired his rifle and the bullet struck the Bishop in the forehead, passing out through the back of his head. He then brought the body to St. Michael's on a dog-sled, and the body is now in possession of one of the fathers who was laboring with the Bishop on the river, but at another mission. The Bear sailed July 10 for Cape Navarin, about 400 miles distant to see if a part of the crew of the bark Napoleon, from this port, which was lost in the Arctic two years ago, could be found.

THE WHEELING DEMONSTRATION

Governors Foraker and Wilson Talk About the Matter.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The World's Columbus correspondent interviewed Governor Foraker on the Wheeling incident yesterday The Governor said that it was an exceedingly unpleasant topic and one to be deplored. It was the result of one of those accidents, he said, which unexpectedly intervene on such occasions. It was the outcome of Governor Wilson becoming somewhat agitated. The speeches of both Governors were brought about by the interruptions of old soldiers and outsiders. "I incline to the belief," said Governor Foraker, "that Governor Wilson was exasperated because some of the Grand Army Posts refused to pass under the banner bearing President Cleveland's portrait. I did not see the banner until after the parade, and do

THE PRESS

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 31.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

Judge McCue apparently himself sees the absurdity of his appointment as fish commissioner and is in no hurry to accept the office.

Wiggins has made his appearance again, this time with a prediction of a big storm on September 19th. Happily the time has gone by when Wiggins could scare people. He used to be a terror; now he is looked upon as nothing but a harmless crank.

It has been an open secret for some time that some of the Maine Democrats were in favor of abolishing the office of of surveyor of this port. It must not be inferred however that they are actuated by motives of economy. This policy is advocated simply as the surest method of checkmating certain aspirants whom they do not like. There is much more vengeance than reform at the bottom of it.

The Pennsylvania Democratic State convention meets to-day. The chief interest hinges on the tariff plank of the platform. There is a movement, which probably originated with the administration, to get a declaration in favor of a reform of the tariff, and thus bottle up the Hon. Samuel J. Randall. But Mr. Randall is fully alive to the situation and no such resolution will go through if he can prevent it, and Mr. Randall is a pretty big man in the Keystone State.

Major Downey, one of the old pioneers of of Colorado, says the great fuss over the stealing of a horse or two by the Utes is entirely uncalled for and inconsistent. Hundreds of horses have been stolen from the Utes by the whites but no white man was ever indicted. He has no doubt that the ponies the Utes are accused of stealing had been stolen from them and only reached their rightful owners when the Utes got them back.

There can be no doubt that Collector Page in refusing to post up for the inspection of the public a list of those who have taken out liquor licenses is acting in violation of law. The act of Congress is mandatory and expressed in terms that admit no doubt as to its meaning. But whether Mr. Page can be made to perform his duty while his superior officer, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, sympathizes with, and apparently encourages, his neglect of it, is a question.

The labor party of New York is young yet, but it appears to be big enough to split. The Socialists, who were rather cavalierly treated by George, are going to nominate John Swinton and a full State ticket. Swinton has just wasted $40,000 running a paper in the interest of Socialists, and now proposes to sacrifice himself still further by becoming their candidate for Secretary of State. His candidacy will serve one useful purpose, however. It will show how many Socialists there are in the Empire State.

Scarcely a day passes now without a deliverance of some sort from Mr. Powderly. A year ago he was a fierce protectionist, but he is beginning to wabble on that subject as he has on most others since he has been conspicuous before the public. The trouble with Mr. Powderly seems to be that he is only clay in the hands of the potter, and the shape that he takes is determined entirely by the potter's fancy. The country some time ago ceased to have much respect for his judgment or his courage, though it has inclined and still inclines to award him the credit of good intentions.

The chairman of the Prohibition State committee of Iowa has issued a secret circular containing the prices at which the services of the leading Prohibitionists can be obtained. Some of them, principally the candidates for office, are willing to deliver speeches for their expenses and entertain, $5 to $50 a night for speaking in "the cause of conscience." A number of clergymen are included in the $5 list, and some offer a job lot of six speeches for $20. Ex-Gov. St. John charged the Maine Prohibitionists $100 a speech, but it seems that the Iowa brethren do not value their services so high. Probably, however, they ask all they are worth, and in many cases, no doubt, a good deal more.

Col. Charles B. Morton and Capt. R. W. Black of count-out fame, have just put the Augusta Democracy under deep obligations to them by inducing the Secretary of the Treasury to reject all the bids for the construction of the Augusta post office building, and order the work done by the day. The Secretary advertised for bids for the work, but when the bids were opened it was found that the lowest bidder was the Hallowell Granite Company. Then there was a great commotion. The Hallowell Granite Company is composed of Republicans, and it was a horrifying thought to the Augusta Democracy that a public building should be built under a Democratic administration by a Republican company. So the postmaster and Mr. E. C. Allen and lots of other prominent Democrats protested to the Secretary that the work could be done better by the day, and their protest, together with the representations of Col. Morton and Capt. Black, was sufficient to induce the Secretary to reject all the bids. Of course the scheme is to work the new building for all that it is worth to the Democrats politically by placing the work in the hands of a Democratic superintendent who can be trusted to employ nobody who will not promise to vote the Democratic ticket. The trick will not amount to much, but it serves to show what desperate straits the Maine Democracy are in.

Convict Labor in Georgia.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat is writing that paper some very interesting and instructive letters on the convict labor system of Georgia. It is well known that convicts are let out in that State to the highest bidder and are practically under the control of the firm that hires them. At the present time nearly all of them are employed on the Midland railroad or in the Dade coal mines, the latter owned by Senator Brown. In the mines they are well treated and nothing in the shape of cruelty is allowed. There is a good hospital for those who fall sick and competent medical attendance. The cost of each of these convicts to Senator Brown, including their board and what he pays the State for them, is about 65 cents a day; and as they do about as much work as free labor, of course Mr. Brown is making an exceedingly good thing.

The kind of treatment these men receive in Senator Brown's camp is the exception and not the rule. As a rule they appear to be treated with much less consideration than the lowest of domestic animals. They are kept at work as long as they are able to stand up. A physician who made an investigation at the instance of the State Legislature found a convict at work picking cotton with the bones of his forearm broken and not united. Another with an ugly wound in the ankle which was greatly inflamed and was threatening the bones of the leg was engaged at the same work. One convict, said by the overseer to be a "little bilious" was found to be in a high fever and dangerously ill. The hospitals in which the convicts who got too sick to be forced to work were cared for were of the rudest description. Several of them the doctor describes. One had no windows at all. The only opening into it was the door and when this was shut there was no ventilation at all. Another had several holes sawed out just above the bunks through which the wind blew and in the stormy weather the rain beat in. There was no glass in the building and no way to close these holes. Another was swarming with bed bugs and other vermin. Of medical attendance there was nothing worthy of the name. The overseer generally decided when a convict was sick and what ailed him, and for the most part prescribed for him as well. One of these overseers said that when he was unable to decide which of two diseases a convict had he mixed the remedies for the two diseases and gave him a dose of the mixture. Down on the Midland railroad the cruelties practiced by the "whipping boss" have been so atrocious that Gov. Gordon has ordered his prosecution. Several convicts had complained of their treatment to the State officers and for this offense they were stripped and their heads fastened so as to be drawn over towards their knees, and then they were beaten on their backs until the skin was torn into shreds and the victims were faint from loss of blood.

To the credit of Gov. Gordon be it said that the present system of disposing of the prison convicts meets his unqualified disapproval, and any movement to abolish it will be given his hearty support. The obstacles to a change are that a large part of the contracts have many years to run yet and the State cannot annul them without the risk of having to pay heavy damages, and that there is no general agreement as to a substitute for the present system. Gov. Gordon thinks that convicts might be worked on the roads under State supervision or on farms carried on for the purpose of testing various systems and profits in different lines of culture and products.

CURRENT COMMENT.

UNCONSCIOUS HUMORISTS.

[Boston Record.]

The prohibitionist is not without his streak of unconscious humor. He discussed with great seriousness at his State committee meeting Saturday the question of the appointment of four doorkeepers to scrutinize credentials lest Republicans "raid" the gathering.

THE PERSONAL ORGAN.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

The starting of a newspaper in Atlanta, Ga., to advocate the Presidential claims of Gov. Hill is the sheerest idiocy. The newspaper field is well filled in Atlanta, and the personal organ business is played out all over the country. When a man buys a paper nowadays he wants 5 cents' worth of history, and not 5 cents worth of wind.

BOOMING REAL ESTATE IN WISCONSIN.

[Hartford Courant.]

They have a novel way of booming real estate sales in Wisconsin. A three days' auction sale began on Saturday on the grounds of the Newberry addition to Hurley. Balloon ascensions are advertised for each day, including Sunday. On Saturday the balloonist was to throw from the balloon "a warranty deed of lot with home already erected," and on Sunday and Monday a deed of a lot was to be disposed of in the same manner.

CARTLOADS OF MONEY.

A Procession Twenty-three Miles Long—Startling Figures About Uncle Sam's Cash.

[New York Mail and Express.]

Few persons, perhaps, who read the frequently published reports of the fiscal operations of the government give any consideration to the vastness and significance of these operations. We read of the hundreds of millions of gold and silver in the Treasury at Washington, but how few persons have any intelligent idea of what is embraced in the nine figures required to describe the liabilities and assets of the government. It is only when the auriferous contents of the Treasury vaults are weighed and measured and placed by the side of articles and commodities that are daily handled by the masses that an intelligent comprehension can be obtained by the people of the financial strength of the Treasury and the great extent of the government's fiscal operations.

By reference to the latest published statement of Treasury assets and liabilities it is learned that among the assets was $281,096,417 in gold and nearly $250,000,000 in silver, including 34,000,000 of trade dollars and fractional coins. Taking up the bill $281,000,000 of gold and placing it on scales I find that the gold held by the Treasury weighed 519 tons, and if packed into ordinary carts, one ton to each cart, it would make a procession two miles long, allowing twenty feet of space for the movement of each horse and cart. The weighing of the silver produces much more interesting results. Running this over the scales I find its weight to be 7,396 tons. Measuring it in carts, as in the case of the gold, the silver now held by the Treasury would require the services of 7,396 horses and carts to transport it and would make a procession over twenty-one miles in length. The surplus about which so much is said in the daily newspapers amounts to nearly $47,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 since July 1. Counted as gold this surplus would weigh eighty-six and one-half tons. Counted as silver it would weigh 1,383 tons. Each million of gold adds 3,685 pounds to the surplus, and each million of silver adds 58,930 pounds.

Applying cubic measurement to the Treasury gold and silver piling the two metals on Pennsylvania avenue, as cordwood is piled before delivery in the navy yard, the gold and silver 940 cords, and both would extend from the Treasury Department to Four-and-a-half street, or from the Treasury to the Pension Office in a straight line, and forming a solid wall eight feet high and four feet broad.

Extending these calculations and comparisons to the interest-bearing debt, equally interesting results are obtained. The public debt reached the highest point in August, 1865—just twenty-two years ago—when it was $2,381,530,295. The general reader will better appreciate the vastness of this sum when informed that it represents 70,156 tons of silver, which would make a procession of carts that would extend from Richmond, Va., to a point twelve miles north of Philadelphia, the distance it would thus cover being 366 miles.

The interest-bearing debt is now (not including the Pacific railroad bonds) $1,001,976,850, showing that the sum paid has been $1,379,553,445, or more than one-half of the total amount, and representing 40,637 tons of silver dollars, which would extend 154 miles packed in carts containing one ton each.

Reducing these figures to a basis where they may be intelligently comprehended, and that the rapidity with which the government has reduced its bonded debt may be fully realized by the general reader, I find that the reduction has been at the average rate of $62,706,075 each year, $5,225,581 each month, $174,186 each day, $7,258 each hour and $120.47 for every minute of the entire twenty-two years.

Pursuing the calculation to the smallest divisible space of time, the bonded debt of the United States has been decreased at the rate of $2.07 for every second, or for every swing of the pendulum, for the entire period from August 31, 1865, to July 31, 1887.

This is an exhibition of recuperation and material progress that is without parallel in the world's history.

Alvan Clark's Care in Making a Lens.

[Boston Advertiser]

On a table in Alvan Clark's manufactory at Cambridge was the finished Pulkova lens which weighed 456 pounds, and consisted of two lenses, each 30 inches in diameter, says Otto Michels in the Sun. Generally these lenses are made to accurately fit, and are joined together with Canada balsam, but in such large glasses as the Pulkova and the Lick, they are fitted in a metal frame with an adjustment so that they can be made to approach each other, or otherwise. If a single lens were used, the object inspected would be fringed with various artificial colors and other defects due to spherical aberration, but by the simple artifice of using two kinds of glass these defects are cured to a great extent and a nearly perfect image is secured.

When the evening was sufficiently advanced the great Pulkova glass was placed in its temporary fitting in the garden. There was no moon and the darkness was intense. The glass was brought out on a four-wheel hand truck, and lifted into the tube by five men, and fixed by revolving it in the screw fitting. The tube was 45 feet long, and weighed with the attending fittings about seven tons. Two piles of brickwork supported the whole. There was no clockwork movement, and the roughest apparatus was employed. The telescope was raised and moved by a guide rope, the motion of an equatorial movement being imitated by using a common windlass. As the motion of the earth caused the object to pass across the field of the telescope, the observer gave the order "follow," when a slight turn of the windlass kept the object in view. Such were the rough appliances used to test this $60,000 lens.

The planets had all set, and I had to be satisfied with a view of a fixed star, which is an excellent object for testing the optical properties of a lens, but very uninteresting otherwise, as the largest telescope can make little impression on a fixed star; no disk can be seen, merely a speck of light. The star selected was a small one, and barely visible as a pale, minute object. On looking at it with this magnificent instrument its wonderful light gathering powers were at once evident, for the star shone with the luster and brilliancy of an electric light. It was an object which brought out all the imperfections of the glass, and to the eyes of Mr. Clark and his sons many were evident, and, it was said, two months' work was necessary to correct them. During the trial the lens was lowered and five men revolved the glass in its fitting. On its being placed in its position again one of the sons was about to make another test when the old man shouted: "Wait, boys; let her cool."

I was curious to know what this could mean, and Alvan Clark explained that the correction was so delicate that the heat from the hands of the five men holding the metal case of the objective would change the correction, so it had to "cool."

On the front or crown glass lens was a very marked flaw, due to the lapping over of a strata of glass in cooling. By measurement I found it to be 1½ inches long, by one-eighth of an inch in diameter, almost in the center of the lens, near the front surface. This was a very provoking circumstance in a $60,000 glass. Mr. Clark had ordered another disc of glass, but Prof. Von Otto Struve decided to accept the damaged one, at least for a time, as it seemed very doubtful when another glass might be expected to be made in France. This flaw would not alter the definition of the lens, but would merely stop a fractional part of light passing through the lens.

MURAT HALSTED.

The Cincinnati Editor's Adventures Abroad.

New York World.

Mr. Halsted is one of the most vigorous of men. He would impress a stranger with the idea of being reserved and unapproachable, but with his friends he is chatty, expansive and almost boyish in his love of fun. I think this love of fun and of change of scene contains the secret of his vigor and youthful appearance. I have noticed him in a number of London groups and he always stands out with great prominence, even among the most noticeable of gatherings. This dashing Cincinnati editor, who is now fifty-eight years of age, has today the eyesight of a young man. He has never worn eye-glasses He has the air and bearing of manner of a military man. He is tall, broad-shouldered, very straight, with a stout well-rounded figure. His features are clear-cut; his color is fresh and clear, indicating high health. His eyes are bright, blue and sparkling. His nose is Roman; his forehead is high and broad, a snow-white, crisp military mustache and imperial adorn his alert, resolute-looking face. Buttoned up in the black frock suit, under a high silk hat, he is seen everywhere about London. He is always coming or going somewhere. He has the restless energy and force of a young man of the most intense ambition. He comes over to Europe very often to freshen up his mind and to get out of the ruts. He was over here as an observer during the late Franco-Prussian war, and if there was to be a new war between France and Germany I am sure that the restless Halstead, if he should happen to be in the United States, would take the first steamer for Europe following the declaration.

I heard him tell, the other night, the experiences that he had in the war of 1870. He was at Gravelotte and saw as much of that battle as any one could see. He said that it was all smoke and confusion, however, to an unprofessional mind. It was difficult to tell what was taking place. While he was waiting about, Bismark came along riding with our Phil Sheridan. Halsted called out to Sheridan to tell him briefly what had taken place. Sheridan did not recognize him until he had taken off his hat, and then he said, "Hallo, Halsted! What are you doing here? Halsted replied in an off-hand way, "I am just down here looking about. I thought it might be interesting." At this word "interesting," Bismark burst out laughing. "If that is not an American way of putting it," said he. "So you think it is interesting," and again he laughed. Bismark treated him very politely after Sheridan had introduced him, but he would not give him permission to buy a horse, and the editor, footsore and weary, had to make his way as best he could to the nearest railway station.

Mr. Halsted had a number of interesting experiences during the war. He said that he used to be arrested about thirty times a day. He never had any difficulty with the higher German officials. From them he always received courtesy and attention, but from the subordinates he never received anything but incivility and discourtesy.

WIT AND WISDOM.

A Texas gentleman travelling in a Pullman palace car in Pennsylvania happened to say that he was from the Lone Star State.

"Do you live in the western portion of the State?" asked a man opposite.

"I do."

"In Tom Green county?"

"Live near Carson?"

"That's my town."

"Perhaps you know my brother, William Henry Jones?"

"Know him? Gimme your hand, stranger. I helped hang William Henry the night before I left. He was a horse thief, but a good one!"

Smart Weed and Belladonna combined with the other ingredients used in the best porous plasters make Carter's S. W. & B. Backache Plasters the best in the market. Price 25 cents.

Lighthead—You seem to have a vewey intewesting book, Miss Cultuwesque.

Miss C—Yes; I am readiuz Herbert Spencer's "Philosophy of Style."

Lighthead—Do you know, I think it is bettah to depend on one's own natural tasks in matthaws of dwess, rather than bother one's head with these books on styles.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

"Please, sir, have you seen a gentleman without a little girl?"

"Well, and what if I have, little one?"

"My uncle John has lost me, and I thought if you'd seen a gentleman without a little girl you could tell me where he was.

Good reports from Quaker Bitters. Rev. Joel Wood writes: "I think your Quaker Bitters have saved me from a premature grave, and I wish the world to know it." N. A. Potter writes: "I have taken Quaker Bitters for Liver Complaint, and pronounce them unsurpassed." A. G. Kimball writes: "I was troubled with Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration; all broken down; and now entirely well, and able to work in the field."

Little Quaker Pills, purely vegetable, small, and easy to take.

"Who are you, I'd like to know," said the man with the soap, corn remedy and feather duster to the woman who was scrubbing the threshold of the door and refused to get out of his way.

Mrs. Muldoon—I'm the lady that takes care of this floor, and we don't want any peddlers here."

"I'm not a peddler," rejoined the man in an injured tone; "I'm salesgentleman."

Stop that Cough or it will terminate in consumption. After suffering for months from a cough which, after using many remedies without any relief, threatened to terminate seriously, we were entirely cured by the use of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. J. G. WESTAFER, Editor of "Chronicle," Elizabethtown, Pa.

Man (to literary woman of Chicago)—Are you reading the Thackeray letters?

Chicago woman—Oh, I glance at them occasionally, but don't you know that I take very little interest in current gossip; but, after all, I suppose the newspapers must fill up with something. If they didn't put in Thackeray's letters about base ball and such they would have to put in something else or leave the space blank.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it prodnces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub, awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes Twenty-five cents a bottle.

STIMULATE THE BLOOD.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the great blood purifier. They are a purgative and blood tonic, they act equally on the bowels, the kidneys, and the skin, thus cleansing the system by the natural outlet of the body—they may be called the purgative sudorific and diuretic medicine. They stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cure disease no matter by what name it may be called. One or two of them taken every night will prove an infallible remedy.

W. P. Pattee, salesman for Esterbrook & Eaton, Boston, writes: "It gives me pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Balsam cured me of a severe cold, to which I had been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and they have all been benefitted by its use. I think it has no equal as a cough mixture." Trial bottles 10 cents. aug29eod&w

Surprise Party.

A very enjoyable surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McDonald, at their residence, Monday evening, it being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. After the large body of friends had assembled and favored the couple with fine vocal and instrumental selections, they were invited into the dining room and a capital collation provided. Mr. John R. Gibson, in fitting words, on behalf of the friends, congratulated Mr. and Mrs. McDonald on their arrival at the twentieth milestone in their wedded life, to which Mr. McDonald briefly responded. After prayer and remarks by Rev. Mr. Crosser, the company separated, leaving many and valuable presents, and hoping to repeat their visit twenty years hence.

A New Use for Yeast.

C. A. Bickford's yeast delivery wagon was upset at the corner of Free and Cotton streets yesterday morning by a countryman who ran into it and caught his wheel in its step. He kept right on and as his wheel turned the step went into the air and the yeast wagon was on its side in a twinkle. The yeast was scattered in every direction and a wag who was assisting in raising the horse, who fell and lay on his side, suggested that a cake of it be used under the animal. The horse evidently knew the power confined in one of the little cakes and immediately arose to his feet. A broken shaft was the principal damage.

A Narrow Escape.

Yesterday a small boy drove up Congress street with a somewhat spirited horse, which as as was evident, he did not know how to manage. He was driving in an express wagon, and when near India street he applied the whip, in boy fashion, to the nervous animal. The horse ran on to the sidewalk just in front of a fruit team while was coming down the street, and would have collided with it if the driver of the fruit team had not promptly stopped his wagon and turned the boy's horse to one side by a blow of his whip. The boy's horse was stopped, backed from the sidewalk, and the youngster drove on.

THE LIFE SAVING STATION.

What Superintendent Richardson Says About It.

The life saving station at Bowery Beach is completed, as has already been stated in the PRESS, at which time a description of the new building was given. A reporter for the PRESS called on Captain Richardson, superintendent of the service, at his headquarters in the custom house yesterday, to make some inquiries of that gentleman in regard to the station and received a cordial welcome.

"When will the station be opened?" said Captain Richardson, "is a question I cannot answer. The matter remains in the hands of the Treasury Department. The building has been practically accepted because I have been ordered to take the keys, but it has not been officially accepted. When it is officially accepted I shall be notified and the furnishings will be forwarded from New York. Yes, some of the articles may be provided here, but there are some that could not be furnished here and have to come from New York. It is not imperative on the department to open a new station at any fixed time. After it has been in service a year then it has to be opened September 1st. The law, you see, says stations may be opened, not must be opened. If the Department so chooses this station may not be opened until the one at Portsmouth is opened, or until the one at Damariscotta is completed, where, as yet, not a stick of timber has been hauled on the ground, and yet it is four months since it was decided to establish a station there. I understand that Mr. Horace Trundy of Cape Elizabeth is an applicant for the position of captain. He, if appointed, will have the selection of the life saving crew of seven men. But, as you see, the whole matter of the running of the station is a thing of the future. At present the whole matter is simply this, that the house is completed and I have the keys."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

The sale of seats for Denman Thompson in the "Old Homestead," at Portland Theater, Friday and Saturday, will begin at the box office to-day. The New York World says: "If the favor of the public be worth working for and be a recompense for work, Mr. Thompson has found a reward for his long and earnest search for a good play in "The Old Homestead." There are old friends in the new play, the chief of which are Josh himself, and Cy Prime, the champion humbug of Swanzey and pretty nearly champion of all the world besides. Josh opens the ball by opening his heart and hand to a seedy old tramp, and this act bears good fruit subsequently, for the tramp, in altered circumstances, becomes a good Samaritan to the prodigal son of the good genius of the play, who in his turn gravitates from bad to good, and becomes an honor to his lively but honest and honorable old dad. There is nothing Shakespearian about this. It does not touch, nor does it seek, the levels of high tragedy or high comedy. It is Dickensque. It is a reflection of low life. It is homely, it is simple, but it is true to life and true to act, and above all, it takes a grip on the heart which cannot be loosened. The leading parts are taken by actors who feel them to the life, and the play 'catches on.'"

NOTES.

Labor Day.

To-night the committee on celebration of Labor Day will meet at Thatcher Post Hall, corner of Elm and Congress streets, and a general invitation is extended to all interested in the subject to meet with them. As has before been stated the project has met with great acceptance by many of the different trades located, not only in Portland, but in the different towns in the county. The clambake will be a great affair and games will be provided to please every one, while, if a meeting is held in City Hall in the evening, excellent speakers will be provided. This Labor Day celebration is a good idea and if the various trades take hold in earnest they can make it a great success.

No. 11 MIDDLE ST., Portland, Aug. 29th.

C. J. Chapman, Esq., Mayor:

Respectfully yours, R. P. JEWETT. Sec'y.

The bridal couple were the recipients of numerous and valuable presents, including a silver card receiver and a berry spoon, the gift of Thatcher Relief Corps, of which the bride is a member. A bountiful supper was served at 9 o'clock. The newly married couple took the Machias steamer for a brief bridal trip to Sedgwick and Bar Harbor.

The Deluded New Yorker.

The statements made by a New York man to a reporter of the Sun, are denied by Portland Fish dealers. No organization has been formed among shore fishermen, and there is no endorsement of the Canadian policy by them. In regard to the New Yorker's assertion that vessels have been equipped with very large sails, the owners say that it has been a well known fact that instead of putting their vessels in trim to run away from Canadian cruisers, the schooners have complied with the conditions imposed by the Canadian authorities and have not been rendered liable to molestation.

A Bowdoin Graduate's Work.

[New York Tribune.]

The city of Platteville, Wis., was in gala dress a few days ago to do honor to President Pickard, of the Iowa State University, the founder and principal of the Platteville Academy from 1846 to 1860. Mr. Pickard went to Platteville from Bowdoin College, a young man of 22 years, and opened his school in a frame building with only five pupils. His power as a teacher soon became known. Students flocked to his school from all parts of the West, and Pickard's Academy gained the reputation of being a preparatory school which had few, if any superiors. In 1853 a large three-story stone building was erected (now the north wing of the State Normal School), additional teachers were employed, and for the remaining six years of Mr. Pickard's service the academy had a marked success, preparing a large number of students for college. In 1859 Mr. Pickard was elected superintendent of public instruction in Wisconsin, and the Platteville Academy in course of time was merged into a State Normal School. As Superintendent of Public Instruction, Regent of Normal Schools and Regent of the State University, Mr. Pickard's work is well known to the people of Wisconsin. In the autumn of 1863 he was elected Superintendent of the Chicago Schools, and for thirteen years filled that position with great ability, and to this day he is called the "Father of the Chicago School System." In 1876 he accepted the presidency of the State University of Iowa, performing the executive duties of that great institution with marked success until June last, when he resigned to take a much needed rest.

Rattlesnakes in Oxford.

[Oxford Democrat.]

John Howe of Bethel came down to Greenwood on a visit Friday, and the next day he and our son Elbon went over to Shadagee Pond fishing. On walking over a ledge near the pond, Elbon came in close proximity to a big rattlesnake. He stepped within about three feet of him, and saw him about the same time that the reptile warned him off by shaking his rattles. He retreated a short distance, and then stopped and took a look at his snakeship. He describes him as about as thick as his arm, of a grey color, with dark spots. He lay in a coil, with his tail erected about a foot when sounding his rattles.

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

Sheriff Smith has appointed Washington Phillips and S. W. Sypbers deputy sheriffs for the enforcement of the liquor law. The new officials have qualified and entered upon their duties.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Mr. Lemuel Milliken, of Dunstan's Corner, Scarboro, says that about three weeks ago a deer paid him a visit. A neighbor's girl called to him that there was a strange animal down by the gate with the cows. Going there Mr. Milliken found a large deer, which one of the cows was charging upon with her horns. Just then the deer made a leap over a distance of 27 feet into Mr. Milliken's potato patch, bounded thence across the road into a neighbor's lot and made for the woods. He says if the game law is well enforced deer will soon be plenty throughout the State, and they do no harm to crops, etc., merely browsing on forest saplings and such.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

The circumstances attending the theft of a large ox from the pasture of Daniel Vining of Windsor last Friday evening were surprising. The ox was stolen in broad daylight and led off by two men who were met in the road with the animal by several residents of Windsor. They stopped a portion of a day and over night at Chelsea, turning the ox out to pasture. They continued on Damariscotta way and neither hide nor hair of ox can be found. The thieves also disappeared. Search is being made in Kennebec town for the hide and a reward of $50 has been offered for the recovery of the animal, if alive.

A big trade is now being done in blueberries along the line of the N. B. Railway. Between Welsford and McAdam Junction there are five firms engaged in shipping blueberries to the United States. A team goes daily to the Ball Mountains, and two teams to Clouseness, to carry the berries from the "fields" to the place of shipment. Thirty-five cents a pail are paid to pickers on the plains for berries. Last year some $703 were paid to the pickers at Cloneness. The shipments this year will be much larger than last, as the "American firms" are more vigorously pushing trade.

A newspaper despatch says D. Brown Staples, son of I. W. Staples, formerly of Oldtown, now a wealthy lumberman of Stillwater, Minn., was the owner of a colt that was distanced in a recent race at Freeport, Ill. The evening after the race, young Staples met Mr. Charles A. Winship of Minneapolis, Minn., another horse owner, drew a revolver and shot him, the ball entering his body in the region of the heart, and it was thought he could not live. Staples refused to give any reason for the deed, and prominent horsemen present are unable to account for his act.

He formerly kept a saloon in Richmond but left to avoid arrest for rumselling.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT DISCOUNT is the story now in our Parasol department. That is to say: You can buy Parasols of us now at three-quarters of the marked price.—Not because the goods are not worth as much now as they were six weeks ago nor because they are damaged or out of style;—the value is the same and the goods are perfect, and in every way as desirable, but the Parasol season is about over; what we have left on the first of October will be packed away in camphor till next season. Rather than keep them till another year we prefer to lose a little money on them, so we offer seven dollar Parasols for $3.25. Five dollar Parasols for $3.75, and so on. It's a good investment and worth considering.—Come and see them.

"SILVER TIPPED" OATS.

This Oat is carefully selected from the best grades and fills the requirements of Horses better than any other. They are manufactured or improved by machinery, the end or loose fiber clipped off and the oat thoroughly cleaned and all dirt as well as objectionable stuff removed, leaving the oat plump and ready for the horse to enjoy eating. It's not economy to feed horses poor food or force them to eat dirt and refuse that causes heaves or other ailments. All who have had experience in feeding oats, find much that is objectionable in regular grades, which can only be avoided by removal (nearly 1-3 less of "SILVER-TIPPED" are equal any regular graded No. 2 white as they outweigh in proportion to that difference and are, practically speaking solid meats. They run uniform, also bright, sweet and clean, grading the highest in any market. They are the best and cheapest to feed, also the nicest Seed Oat, being free from all foreign substance and no harm having been done them to prevent growing.

Any one who will give them consideration and a trial will be sure to use them, as they are in all respects a first class oat, and the most economical and best Feed for Horses. Ready sale and increased demand has been established in the larger markets elsewere and have become very popular wherever known. The manufacturer desires to introduce these oats throughout Maine on their merits and takes this manner of bringing them before the public.

RICHARDSON

Among the host of competitors, many of which are excellent Instruction Books,

Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte.

A HALF MILLION COPIES

still serenely occupies the position of the "winning yacht" in the race for popularity.

Its sale has been tremendous. Edition follows edition in rapid succession, and it will not be long before it will be safe to announce as a total number printed and sold.

"RICHARDSON" is a very correct book. For a long time no error in a phrase or note has been recorded.

"RICHARDSON" has become a standard favorite with a multitude of teachers, who find an advantage in giving lessons from a book with which they are familiar, and that by its high reputation secures the respect and interest of the scholar.

"RICHARDSON" has advantage in the way of good illustrations of the position and action of the fingers, and also in the few pages of advice to players from the pens of Schumann and Czerny.
